Most of the restaurants near UW are located on University Way which is known as “The Ave” by students. After eating on campus for a few days straight, it is very easy to get sick of eating the same foods over and over again. Trust me, by the first week you’ll be craving to eat out! You can easily find these restaurants by google map if you don’t know the location.

1. MeeSum Pastry

I personally didn't like to eat hamburgers and pizzas a lot and I always still loved to eat Taiwanese food! I found out about this restaurant since my roommate was originally from Taiwan. MeeSum is a Taiwanese restaurant located ten minutes walking distance up the ave. It has a great variety of Taiwanese dishes and pastries. Although it is not 100% authentic, the taste is nevertheless, very delicious. My personal favorite is Broccoli Beef with a cup of MeeSum Bubble Tea!

2. Costas Restaurant

Amazing restaurant for mediterranean food! What kind of food exactly is mediterranean? I didn't know either when I went there but the food is very good. The pasta is different from the kind you eat in Taiwan, for the sauce is more dryer and thicker. They also tend to add cheese into the sauce giving it a creamy and indulging texture.

3. EJ's Burger

EJ's burger is the best place for burgers my roommate says. If you are looking for a nice big and juicy patty for a nice price this is the perfect place. Top your burger off with a milkshake and crispy french fries. Do keep in mind that calories might get a little out of control!

4. Thaiger Room

Ever heard of American Style Thai food? This place is usually packed with people at night. The portions here are HUGE~~~ With big chunks of sauce and noodles, you will be on a savory adventure. I personally recommend the pineapple fried rice. You can try their thai style noodles.

Sweet and Sour with a hint of lime, the noodles will have you coming back for more. Beware though that the flavors here are pretty heavy.

5. Henry's Taiwan Kitchen (老谷台菜)

Henry's Taiwan Kitchen offers a great variety of Taiwanese foods from 滷肉飯 to 牛肉麵. This is nice place to go if you are feeling a little homesick. A bowl of beef good soup will warm up your heart and also satisfy a hungry stomach. Compared to other restaurants on the Ave, the price here is a bit more expensive. Be careful not to order too much because portions here are still way bigger than in Taiwan. I recommend “香干肉絲套飯.” Yum~~
