Re: E-paper Volume 3

Christmas are coming and for the first time I felt a bit lonely. I was never a fan of this particular celebration, but it was another time where I was so far away from my family. I realized that although I claim not to have strong family bonds I miss all my relatives. Together with exchange students we organized a gift lottery and also went to nice restaurant to celebrate a bit. After we went for a nice party with other Indian people. I decided not to go to Goa and stay at campus to celebrate New Year Eve with local people. It was awesome to look at the way they perform the synchronized dances and have fun, very different from the western perspective

After NYE we went to near by city called Mysore, city of silk and also historical capital of the region with amazing palace. Again we encountered “slightly special” prices for all tickets to enter any of places.
